FOREIGN QUARTER UNDER GUARD

Defeated Chekiang Troops Overrunning Shanghai.

SEVERAL CLASHES REPORTED

Lawlessness and Panic Among the Leaderless Troops Feared by Americans and Other Foreigners—Yanks Outside the Settlement Advised to Hurry Within Protection of the Barriers—Fighting in North.

Shanghai, Oct. 15.—One thousand soldiers of the defeated Chekiang army tried to rush the barrier at the French concession here.

The troops were driven back by a French machine gun corps, without bloodshed, but later they quarreled and battled among themselves and several were killed.

Disturbances of the sort most feared by Americans and foreigners since General Lu fled, lawlessness and panic among the leaderless troops, made it an anxious day in the city. The native districts were looted by Chekiang soldiers, who poured into Shanghai ahead of the advancing Kiangsu forces. Panic-stricken Chinese business men are hurriedly raising money to pay expenses of the troops to their homes in the Chekiang province, to get them out of the city.

The settlement boundaries and barriers defending thousands of Americans and foreigners are heavily guarded by marines and sailors from warships. Americans outside the settlement have been advised to hurry within protection of the barriers.

A number of wounded arriving from the recent battle ground to the west reported that renewed clashes had broken out between the armed forces near Nansiang, the old concentration point for the Chekiang armies. There was considerable firing, they said. Troops commanded by Chen Yao San retreated the whole distance to Chekiang headquarters at Lungwha after the loss by the Chekiang forces of the city of Sungkiang, through the "encircling" attack of the Kiangsu allied forces. These, numbering 600 men, were the only troops at Lungwha, it was declared, during the conference of leaders that decided on the complete surrender.

PRINCE VISITS FORD PLANT

Also Attends Dinner Dance at Home of Edsel Ford.

Detroit, Oct. 15.—The Prince of Wales was the guest of Henry Ford during his visit here. He saw the Ford plant in operation and later attended a dinner dance at the home of Edsel Ford. The prince was carefully guarded from the people. Once the train was inside the Ford plant the gates were shut and Wales went about his business of inspecting the American motor car industry. The crowd was not to be disappointed, however, for they stood in front of the building. The building's front is made of huge plate glass windows and the British heir's every movement was followed by the crowd. He paid little heed to the people, however, keeping his back to the street and listening to the Ford engineers explain various bits of mechanism in the plant.

German Loan Oversubscribed.

New York, Oct. 15.—J. P. Morgan & Company announced closing of the subscription books to the American section of the German loan a few minutes after the lists were opened. The issue was heavily oversubscribed. The initial sale of the new German 7s was made on the stock exchange in the first half hour of trading at 94½, which compares with the offering price of 92.

Motorcyclist Killed.

Cleveland, Oct. 15.—Dr. William C. Reid, 33, dentist of Rocky River, a suburb, was killed when at automobile, colliding with his motorcycle, hurled him over the handlebars. He suffered a fractured skull and died while on the way to a hospital.

Arbitrator of American-Mexican Claims Commission.

MADE AN INVALID

Chicago Chauffeur Sues Nathan Leopold and Richard Loeb.

Chicago, Oct. 15.—Henry M. Ashton, attorney, announced that he is starting suit against convicts 9,305 and 9,306 at the Illinois state prison in behalf of Charles Ream, who was a chauffeur here until a physical mutilation made him an invalid. The convicts are Nathan Leopold, Jr., and Richard Loeb, "lifers" for the murder of Bobby Franks. Ream, when he was confronted with Loeb and Leopold soon after their confession of the Franks killing, shuddered and cried an identification of the boys as the youths who "knocked me unconscious and then put me into this awful condition."

PHONE RATE PROBE TO START AT ONCE

Donahay Attacks Members of Utilities Commission.

Columbus, Oct. 15.—Governor Donahay assailed the public utilities commission's decision to make a statewide investigation of the telephone rate situation in Ohio as a political maneuver, designed to delay action on pending rate cases until after the election.

In a statement the governor said that he asked last March for a statewide investigation of the telephone situation and asked the state board of control for $25,000 to employ engineers, auditors and other experts to represent the public in this probe. "The board of control, being four to one of opposite political faith, called the members of the utilities commission, and upon the advice of Commissioners Poor and Maular, former Governor Davis' appointees on the commission, rejected the request," Donahay said. "A few weeks ago a great light suddenly dawned on Commissioners Poor and Maular, being now in the midst of a political campaign in which their jobs are at stake, resulting in their issuance of a resolution advising the public that a statewide telephone investigation would be made and that in the meantime hearings on all telephone cases would be indefinitely postponed, which means they will not be decided until after the election. Since that time there has been a suspicious silence on the subject, indicative of the insincerity of this purely political gesture."

The commission in a formal order took steps to start the telephone investigation at once.

Must Serve Life Sentence.

Columbus, Oct. 15.—A life sentence on a second degree murder charge will be served by Walter Brockman of Cincinnati, as a result of the state supreme court refusing to review his case. The state charged that Brockman was an associate of two other men, Tieman and Kingsbury, and on the night of Jan. 16, 1921, they robbed a man by the name of Brate and his girl companion, named Starr. Brate was killed in a pistol battle with the bandits.

FLIGHT TO NORTH POLE PLANNED

Wilbur Would Put Big Dirigible to Practical Use.

SCHEME UP TO THE PRESIDENT

Secretary of the Navy Sees in the Giant Airship Its Ultimate Use as a Light Freight and Passenger Carrier Devoted to Transoceanic Work. Residents of Hawaiian Islands Make Request.

Washington, Oct. 15.—Secretary of the Navy Wilbur announced that the ZR-3, giant dirigible, will make a trip to the North pole, if President Coolidge approves the project.

Secretary Wilbur says the flight will be started next spring, provided the president consents and congress provides the money. No longer restrained by the argument that the navy can not afford to risk its only airship—with the ZR-3 and the Shenandoah it has two—the navy has taken out the pigeonholed plans of the canceled Shenandoah flight and dusted them off.

Wilbur will lay the whole question before the president for his approval. Some such sort of expedition seems to Wilbur to be the only way to put the ZR-3 to practical use. Under the terms of the Versailles treaty the dirigible can not be used for military purposes and this restricts it to experimentation or training.

Secretary Wilbur is keen to use it for advancement of commercial knowledge of air transportation. He sees in the dirigible ultimate use as a light freight and passenger carrier, devoted to transoceanic rather than transcontinental work.

"The loss of expensive helium gas incident to the passage of the Rockies in the west will mitigate against commercial use of such ships in coast to coast service," Wilbur said.

Residents of the Hawaiian Islands have requested that the ZR-3 be put in regular service between Honolulu and a Pacific coast port, arguing that weather conditions on the Pacific are more favorable to dirigible transportation than on the Atlantic. Wilbur reserved decision on this until the future, but indicated that the Honolulu route may be tested by sending it to Hawaiian waters with the fleet for maneuvers.

WELFARE CONFERENCE ON

Negro Migration to the North Among Problems to Be Aired.

Columbus, Oct. 15.—The sixth annual Ohio Welfare conference opened here last night in Memorial hall. More than 350 persons are attending the session. Lectures on negro migration to the north are among the features of the program. First of the daily division luncheon meetings, the conference on illegitimacy, was held at the Columbus hotel. Juvenile Judge Postwick, Miss Vera Smith of Cleveland, Miss Ruth Workum of Cincinnati, Milton J. Mench of Columbus and P. E. Kilgore, director of state child care bureau, spoke. Dean James E. Hagerty of the college of commerce and journalism, Ohio State university, will address delegates on "A Real Legislative Program," at the session of the division of delinquents Thursday morning. A. O. Mitchell of the Associated Charities of Cleveland will speak on the negro migration this evening.

Winning State Fair Slogan.

Columbus, Oct. 15.—C. I. Van Atta of Galion, O., was awarded a Buick coupe offered by the Ohio State fair management for his winning slogan, "No state so fair; no fair so great." The contest was conceived by State Director of Agriculture Charles V. Truax and Fair Manager G. R. Lewis, as a means of increasing interest and attendance for the 1925 fair. This slogan will be used on all advertising, letterheads, etc., next year.

Authoress Kills Self.

New York, Oct. 15.—Mrs. Helen Smith Woodruff, author and playwright, committed suicide by leaping from a window of her home here. Lewis B. Woodruff, her husband, is a noted lawyer and scientist. Mrs. Woodruff, who was born at Selma, Ala., 36 years ago suffered for several years from nervous disorders and for two years of the time was totally blind.

Brakeman Killed.

Cincinnati, Oct. 15.—William Farrell, 28, brakeman, was killed here when run over by a freight car in the Pennsylvania railroad yards.

OHIO HAPPENINGS

Ag. Extension Workers Meet.

Columbus, Oct. 15.—Agricultural extension workers opened their annual conference in Campbell hall, Ohio State university. The conference, which will last all week, will be attended by 255 members of the department. Alfred Vivian, dean of the college of agriculture, will preside and speakers include Professor B. H. Bode, college of education; G. F. Warren, department of agricultural economics and farm management at Cornell university, and President W. O. Thompson.

Body Believed That of Roth.

Cleveland, Oct. 15.—The body of a man found near a brick plant in Cory, Pa., is believed to be that of Marmar Roth, missing paymaster of the Hawthorth Marble company, here. Roth disappeared Saturday with the company payroll, slightly in excess of $2,000. Messages from Cory police say the body they are holding corresponds to descriptions of Roth. They believe he was struck over the head and thrown from an auto.

Court Sends Juror to Jail.

Cleveland, Oct. 15.—Albert Schlosser, a prospective juror in a first degree murder trial before Common Pleas Judge Frank C. Phillips, was sentenced to county jail for five days when he appeared for service intoxicated. After satisfying himself of the man's condition, Judge Phillips warned jurors and prospective jurors against such contempt of court and pronounced the sentence.

Two Fliers Killed.

Dover, O., Oct. 15.—Harold Wood, 26, of Canton, pilot, and Walter Murray, 35, of Mineral City, passenger, were killed at Zoarville, near here, when an old army airplane in which they were riding went into a nose dive and crashed 200 feet. An explosion followed, setting the machine on fire and burning the occupants almost beyond recognition.

Gas Cut to 10 Cents.

Washington, C. H., O., Oct. 15.—The gasoline war that has been raging here for the past month or two broke out anew when one independent distributor reduced his retail price from 15 to 10 cents a gallon. This action came after another independent distributor had reduced his price from 15 to 13 cents a gallon.

High School Boy Loses Life.

Sidney, O., Oct. 15.—With the head severed from the body, the mangled remains of Earl Newman, 15, high school boy, were found on the Baltimore and Ohio railroad near Newman's home, two and a half miles south of Sidney. It is believed the boy was walking in his sleep.

Bullet Wound In Head.

Findlay, O., Oct. 15.—The body of Shelby Latham, 56, of Arlington, O., was found by a road near that village with a bullet wound in his head. A gun was found beside the body. He is believed to have committed suicide.

Bradford May Land.

Xenia, O., Oct. 15.—Oscar E. Bradford of this city is tipped as one of the men slated for appointment on President Coolidge's proposed agricultural commission.

Forbes Trial Date Set.

Chicago, Oct. 15.—Federal Judge George A. Carpenter set the trial of Charles R. Forbes, former head of the United States veterans' bureau, and J. W. Thompson, St. Louis contractor, for Nov. 24. Judge Carpenter refused to set the trial before election, alleging partisan feeling would "circumvent the course of justice."

FORESEE PERIOD OF PROSPERITY

Railroads Prepared to Handle Peak Load of Traffic.

COAL SHORTAGE ANTICIPATED

Summer and Early Fall Movement of Fuel Less Than Normal, According to Reports Received by the Regional Advisory Board Conference. Motor Truck Transportation Referenced to as Menace to Rail Revenues.

Buffalo, N. Y., Oct. 15.—Five hundred railroad officials and representatives of Great Lakes shippers were present at the Great Lakes regional advisory board conference here.

Figures submitted were declared to indicate that the railroads are entering a period of prosperity, following depression in the earlier months of the year. Transportation lines are on an efficient basis, the reports said, with service time faster than at any time in recent years. It was stated in reports that the railroads are prepared to handle a peak load of freight traffic that may establish new records. Increased business and motor truck transportation was referred to as a menace to railroad revenues in a report from the 19 trunk lines operating in the Great Lakes district, and danger of a coal shortage was stressed if consumers defer purchases of winter coal into the coming months. The report stated that regular and satisfactory local train service was being made difficult in many localities because of uncertainty of passenger traffic and freight tonnage.

Reports from the anthracite carrying roads indicate that the movement of hard coal during the summer and early fall has been less than normal. It was predicted that the beginning of winter will find many householders without coal supplies and with deliveries dependent on weather and an anticipated freight congestion, unless there is a large increase in fuel orders immediately.

OPTIMISM ON TAP

Ohio Democratic Leaders Hold Meeting at Columbus.

Columbus, Oct. 15.—Optimism was expressed at the meeting of state Democratic leaders regarding the party's chances in Ohio in the November elections. The meeting was addressed by Governor Donahay, former Governor Cox and a number of other leaders of the party. Ways to get out the Democratic vote in the state were discussed and the prediction was made by George White of Marietta, former Democratic national committeeman, that Ohio would go Democratic this fall. A women's organization was formed.

Other speakers at the Democratic meeting included: National Committeeman E. H. Moore of Youngstown, Mrs. Bernice Pyke of Cleveland, national committeewoman; John A. O'Dwyer of Toledo and Mrs. Frank M. Gorman of Cincinnati, vice chairman of the state executive committee. Donahay in his speech said: "I want Harry L. Davis to explain his connection with the Ohio Bell Telephone company. If I am re-elected, there'll be a real investigation of these telephone rates."

Murder Mystery at Newark.

Newark, O., Oct. 15.—The mystery veiling the murder of Dennis Beatty, 59, market master of the farmers' market here, whose body, bearing 16 knife wounds, was found in the market by Policeman William Hinger, is still unsolved. The appearance of the market building in which the body was found indicates that the first wound was inflicted while Beatty was sleeping, and that the murderer or murderers succeeded in killing him only after a terrific struggle. Policeman Hinger's suspicions were aroused when he found the outer door open, and upon entering to investigate he found Beatty's body lying on the floor some distance from his bed.

Suicide of Senator Brandegee.

Washington, Oct. 15.—Worry over financial difficulties is believed by friends to have prompted the suicide of Senator Frank Brandegee, 60, of Connecticut, whose body was found in the bathroom of his residence here. He took his own life by inhaling gas. Brandegee, who was a bachelor, had no living relatives. He was in congress for 20 years, and was chairman of the senate judiciary committee and one of the Republican leaders on the foreign relations committee. He was a close personal and political friend of Senator Lodge, Republican floor leader.

INCREASE NOTED

Death Toll of Automobiles in United States For Year 1923.

Washington, Oct. 15.—The federal census bureau estimates highway fatalities in the United States at 22,621 for 1923, an increase of 3,418 over the previous year. The 1923 death rate from highway accidents was 20.4 per 100,000 population, as contrasted with 17.6 in 1922. This increase was largely due to the increase of 2,776 deaths in the estimated number of fatalities from automobile accidents. But even the 16,452 deaths charged against the automobile do not tell the whole story, as deaths resulting from collisions between automobiles and railroad trains and between automobiles and streetcars are charged to the heavier vehicle. The thousand fatalities from such collisions in 1923 is a conservative estimate for the United States, the bureau said. If this figure and the fatalities from motorcycle accidents be added the figure for automobile accidents, the final 1923 toll from motor machines on highways becomes 18,788, or 83 per cent of all highway fatalities.

POLICE PROBING CASE

Mother and Daughter in an Alleged Oil Land Swindle.

Chicago, Oct. 15.—Mrs. Mary Kummer, 25, and her mother, Mrs. Anna Wachalter, are in jail while investigation of stories of expected fabulous wealth are being made by the police. Seven years ago, when the daughter was little more than a girl, according to the police, she began soliciting funds to develop her supposed oil lands and since has lived in luxury, although the oil lands were fictitious.

Among those who contributed to the supposed construction of wells were Joseph Sokelich, who loaned $3,000 and received a $10,000,000 note, and John Muhr, who loaned $1,000 and received a $5,000,000 note. After waiting long for the realization of their great expectations, Sokelich and Muhr complained to the police. Nearly all of the money received had been spent, the younger woman said.

Slayer Granted Reprieve.

Columbus, Oct. 15.—Governor Donahay granted a reprieve until Dec. 12 to Alexander Kuzick, 20, of Akron, under sentence to be electrocuted at the Ohio penitentiary Oct. 17 for the murder of his cousin, Elizabeth Nagy, 13, of Akron. The reprieve was granted to permit Kuzick's attorneys to appeal his case to the supreme court for review. Donahay two weeks ago, after a hearing, refused to commute Kuzick's sentence to life imprisonment.

Reds to Hold Roush.

Cincinnati, Oct. 15.—President August Herrmann of the Cincinnati Nationals, said that under no circumstances would Ed Roush, star center fielder of the Reds, be traded to the New York Nationals, or any other club. The rumors have it that Roush would be exchanged for Terry, Ryan and Meusel, or for Kelly and some other Giant player.

Controlling the Winds.

Controlling the winds is not yet an aviation triumph. If an aircraft starts from one point to another due east, and there is a wind blowing of 15 miles an hour northeast, that will clearly have to be taken into consideration, and the compass course altered (before ascending), according to the total distance of the journey.

Joan of Arc's Father

A writer, describing an old French inn at Reims, came across a record of the father of St. Joan of Arc. He writes:

"There has been preserved to us one interesting item on the cost of bed and board; the note of expenses incurred at this inn by the father of Joan of Arc, when he came in the king's train to Reims, in September, 1429, to assist at the coronation. He lodged at the 'Striped Ass,' and leaves an order for payment to be made of twenty-four livres parisis to Alis, widow of the late Raulin-Morlaix, hostess of the 'Aue Raye,' for moneys disbursed in her hotel. Twenty-four livres would, of course, have stood for a much larger sum at this day, but the bill seems a modest one, for Joan's father was probably a full week at the 'Striped Ass.'"

The livre and the franc were practically equivalent.

LEWIS EQUIPS CHILDREN FOR LIFE'S BATTLE

Republican Candidate For Lieutenant Governor Has Two Hobbes---One Is Boys and the Other Girls.

By Frank H. Ward.

When a town keeps the same man as mayor for twenty-five years, it is conclusive evidence that he must have served his constituents well.

Such is the record of Charles H. Lewis who, although comparatively unknown in state politics before this year, went into the race for the Republican nomination for lieutenant governor in a field of a dozen aspirants, and came out with the nomination by a comfortable margin.

Four years ago, Mr. Lewis and Holman Donithen, of Marion, were the delegates from the Eighth congressional district to the Republican national convention which nominated Warren G. Harding for President. Last Spring, when President Coolidge selected Mr. Donithen to manage his pre-convention campaign in Ohio, Mr. Donithen insisted that Mr. Lewis become president of the Coolidge Club of Ohio.

In this capacity, Mr. Lewis visited various sections of Ohio and he impressed the county Republican leaders so that he was urged to run for governor. He demurred, but finally compromised by entering the race for lieutenant governor.

In the primary campaign, Mr. Lewis had more boosters than any new candidate for state office the writer has ever come into contact with. When the subject of lieutenant governor came up, wherever it might be, someone was almost sure to say—

"Now, I've never met this man Lewis, but I understand that he is a high grade, big caliber gentleman, and, withal, a good fellow."

And that is exactly what Charles Lewis is. I hadn't talked to him five minutes before I found what his hobby is—children. Perhaps one reason for his hobby is his own experience in life; he lost his mother at the age of three, and was reared among relatives, and the only child which came to the Lewis home after his marriage died in infancy.

"Uncle Charlie to the Kids" said Mr. Lewis, his pleasant blue eye twinkling, "and, after all, what future would there be for this country if it were not for the younger generation? It is our duty to give them the best training and education possible."

Besides having been mayor of Harpster for 25 years, Mr. Lewis has kept in very close touch with school affairs. He has been president of the village school board for more than 20 years, and president of the county board of education since legislation creating that body was enacted in 1914.

Every school child in Wyandot County knows "Uncle Charlie," and many is the child that he had kept in school by substantial loans of funds on security that none of the banks he is connected with would recognize, but which to him is more sacred than a written bond—the word of the child that he will make good.

Mr. Lewis has no fantastic theories on taxation, welfare, and other problems confronting the state senate, over which he will preside if elected lieutenant governor, but he has the solid business experience and common sense requisite to a solution of these problems, and he has been a student of economics.

As president of a bank at Upper Sandusky, Mr. Lewis has become intimately acquainted with the needs and problems of the farmer, and he has managed many farms for estates which have been liquidated through him as executor or administrator.

You've met some people, haven't you, that upon leaving you made the mental reservation that you would like to know them better? That's the way you'll feel when you shake hands with Charlie Lewis.

You'll feel, as the writer did, that if Mr. Lewis promised to do a thing, he would do it. And, in this campaign, Mr. Lewis promises to give a fair and unbiased administration without favor to any race, creed or color.

DINNER WITH THE "IRON CHANCELLOR"

English Divine Tells of Repast in 1885.

At twelve o'clock we had a large and long meal, including smoked goose and other delights. (Friedrichsruh, Germany, 1885.) My father sat next to Princess Bismarck, who was very pleasant, and after luncheon, when the cigars were handed round, he asked her whether she minded his smoking, on which Bismarck roared out, "Why, she smokes herself!"

This was in 1885, when it was very unusual for a lady, to smoke, so a vigorous effort was made by his daughter to induce him to behave properly; but he took no notice of her repeated and reproachful cries of "Father! she doesn't! Father!" and shouted, "She does, she does, in her bedroom she does!"

It turned out that the poor lady suffered from asthma, and smoked medicated cigarettes to relieve it.

"You will understand," Bismarck remarked, "that in everything but name I am king of Germany, but I have not all the privileges of a king and I cannot simply say I am not disposed to receive so-and-so." It appeared, however, that even the most pressing visitors sometimes failed to get in, for Bismarck told us the following story: "A man called and sent in word that he wanted to see me, and I said that he couldn't. He then sent in to say that he must see me, and I said that he shouldn't; and he sent in a third time to say that if he did not see me he should go and hang himself on one of the trees, and I told the servant to find a rope and lend it to him!"

The frankness or apparent frankness of his talk was surprising, but it was just as cheap to tell the truth as to tell lies, and quite as effective, for the truth is never believed in diplomacy. Another saying of his which impressed me, though I do not remember the context, was "In matters of national policy I never put down my right foot till I know where I am going to put my left; that is a lesson which I learned in my youth in the Pomeranian marshes."

At dinner we each had, I think, seven wine glasses and at least one tumbler, and I drank nothing but water! My host noticed and deplored this, and though he courteously tolerated it he could not refrain from a slight outburst against what he called the temperance craze in England, and against the fanatical attacks on moderate drinking.

It is recorded of him that at one time he did his moderate drinking in large glasses of champagne and port mixed, and that one Moltke gave him a sort of punch made of champagne, hot tea and sherry.

Tall Trees.

The tallest of California's "big trees" is three hundred and twenty-five feet in height, but among the great gum trees of Australia, not to mention British Columbia's great firs, many specimens are more than four hundred feet in height, and one, which was felled in southeast Australia, measured four hundred and seventy-one feet—the tallest tree on record.

BROWN ACTS TO IMPROVE RURAL ROADS QUICKLY

Secretary of State Returns Automobile Tag Receipts Promptly to Counties as Winter Nears.

OVER $5,400,000 SENT BACK SO FAR THIS YEAR

As Head of Election Machinery of Ohio, Thad Brown Speeds Up Returns From Outlying Counties.

By Frank H. Ward.
Columbus, O.—(Special.)—The outstanding accomplishment of the administration of Colonel Thad H. Brown as secretary of state is the prompt return to local taxing subdivisions of their share of the millions of dollars collected from the sale of automobile license tags.

The collection of motor vehicle license fees to Sept. 16, 1924, amounted to $10,953,826.92. Of this amount there has been distributed to counties and municipalities for road maintenance and repair, locally, $5,431,001.58. The balance of this fund is in the state treasury awaiting appropriation by the legislature for state maintenance and repair.

The making of these funds immediately available for use on the roads is recognized by the residents of rural districts as a great favor, as it has made it possible to place hundreds of miles of country roads in good condition for the winter months.

Brown was born on a farm in Morrow county in 1887, not far from the boyhood home of Warren G. Harding. The secretary of state taught school for three terms after completing his high school work and then took his arts course at Ohio Wesleyan university and his law at Ohio State university. While in college he preached the gospel of Republicanism, and was president of the college Republican club at each university.

Office Is Busy Place.
When a visitor enters the secretary of state's office, which is directly across the hall from the governor's office, he is immediately impressed with the tremendous amount of work that flows daily through that office.

The constant increase in the use of automobiles has multiplied the work many times in the last decade. The motor vehicle tag revenue in 1923 was based on 1,020,000 automobiles, trucks and motorcycles; in 1924 tags were issued to 1,260,000 cars, and in 1925 it is anticipated that the number will be close to 1,500,000.

Head of Election Machinery.
By virtue of his office, Secretary Brown is the head of the election machinery in Ohio. He appoints the four members of the election board in each of the 88 counties; these boards are bipartisan, and the members are recommended by the controlling committee of the two major parties; in case of a deadlock on the election of a clerk of the election board, Secretary Brown casts the deciding vote.

The gathering of election returns has been greatly expedited under the Brown administration. At the last legislative session Secretary Brown cooperated with the newspaper correspondents at the capitol in securing a new law which made it mandatory that election boards report returns promptly on election night to the capitol.

In 1914 it was almost a week before the voters knew whether they had elected Judge Hugh L. Nichols or Judge Frank Taggart as chief justice of the Ohio supreme court. In 1922 it was a week before Democrats learned that Stephen M. Young had nosed out B. F. McDonald for the nomination for attorney general. These, and similar instances, called for the change.

"I have earnestly endeavored to render an efficient and economical administration," said Secretary Brown. "The elimination of all delays in the transaction of the public business has been my constant aim."

Good Furniture

Adds Much to the Joy of Living--Little to the Cost

America is fast becoming a nation of better homes. Everywhere there is a growing realization that good Furniture has much to do with happiness and contentment within the home. Furniture, therefore, is now generally recognized as one of the soundest, possible investments—an investment that will pay you richly in "dividends" of comfort, pride and satisfaction. And when you divide the original cost of good Furniture by the many years it will serve you satisfactorily and well, the cost per year is trivial, indeed. Let us show you the many new arrivals, the exceptional values, now featuring our splendid stock of worthwhile Furniture.

STOCK SHIPMENTS

Thru Train Will Reach Pittsburgh Market on Second Day.

The farmers, stock raisers and shippers in this county will be interested to learn that the Pennsylvania railroad have arranged a schedule whereby stock shipped from Pickaway county will reach Pittsburgh market in time to sell the second following day.

A thru train is scheduled to leave New Holland at 12:30 p. m., Williamsport at 1:05 p. m., Circleville at 2:15 p. m., and Stoutsville at 2:55 p. m., arriving in Pittsburgh on the evening of the following day at 5:30 p. m. This will give ample time for loading here in the forenoon and stock will have a night's rest in Pittsburgh before going on the market. Such service will not only mean a saving to the shippers but it will assure the railroad of much business they are not now getting.

Much credit is due Mr. Harry J. Briggs of Perry township in cooperation with the Pickaway County Farm Bureau for securing this service for farmers of Pickaway and adjoining counties.

REST ROOM.

For the convenience of Pumpkin Show visitors the Circleville Business and Professional Women's club will open rest rooms and check room in the City building.

One room equipped as an emergency hospital will be in charge of a trained nurse.

Manganese.

Manganese is found in Japan in three forms: Metallic, which is over 50 per cent pure manganese, being used principally in the making of certain kinds of iron and steel and as an amalgam; dioxide, or "black manganese," having as high as 90 per cent manganese and largely used in the making of chemicals, drugs, paints and electric batteries; and carbonate ore, which until recently has been a waste product in Japan.

PRESBYTERIAN BROTHERHOOD.

The Presbyterian Brotherhood will be addressed at the regular meeting Wednesday evening at 7:30 o'clock by Mayor J. Thomas, of Columbus. Visitors are welcome.

EX-KAISER IS PEEVED AT HIS ELDEST SON

Activity in Political Circles Annoys Father.

Doorn.—Life at the Chateau of Doorn has become, particularly during the last few months, extremely animated.

Every day, almost, sees the arrival of fine automobiles bringing princes, ex-ambassadors, former ministers and generals who had served under the old monarchial regime in Germany.

Some of the visitors leave after a day or two, but others prolong their stay, residing for the time being in expensive "pensions," where they make an ostentatious display of their war decorations, and pay almost daily visits in full dress uniform to the ex-kaiser.

The former emperor appears to be doing everything possible to entertain and attract to himself the sympathies of all German monarchist and military circles. His consort, Hermine, who burns with the desire and hope of one day becoming empress of Germany, seconds her husband in these efforts in the most active manner, and with all the grace at her command, by holding grand receptions and entertainments.

All these activities have for their principal object, according to what is related in the best-informed quarters, to counteract similar ambitious projects entertained by the former crown prince. It is even said that the rivalry between father and son has developed recently into a state of latent warfare, pursued mercilessly on both sides.

The activity displayed since his return to Germany by the former crown prince in political circles, especially among the nationalists and monarchists and the younger generation of militarists, rumors of which reach the ex-kaiser from Berlin, serve to render the latter furious against his son. The prince, on his side, is said to show but little of either respect or admiration for the personages of the old regime and its time-honored traditions.

The ex-crown prince would seem to be desirous of breaking definitely with the ideas and personages of the past, and even to be willing to find himself at the head of a regime purely democratic, provided that it was at the same time nationalist. The former emperor, on the contrary, clings desperately to the ideas and personages of the past, and shows himself a bitter and unchangeable enemy to all democratic sentiments.

Officer Rewarded for Bravery He's Forgotten

Fargo, N. D.—That rewards although sometimes long in coming, inevitably find their way home, is proved by the experience of Lieut. Col. F. M. Steele of Fargo, who has just received a citation for gallantry in action in the Spanish-American war. He says the incident is so far in the past that he cannot recall it.

"For gallantry in action against the Spanish forces at Santiago, Cuba, July 1, 1898, is the only explanation the citation gives. Colonel Steele was then first lieutenant, first cavalry brigade, U. S. A. The citation entitles him to wear "one silver citation star on the ribbon of your Spanish campaign medal or service ribbon pertinent thereto."

Ancient Prayer Swindle Revived $325 Worth

St. Louis, Mo.—The time honored "prayer" swindle has come to life here. The basic idea is that the victim will receive a large sum of money if he will pray each night for a certain dead person. But he must prove he is responsible by displaying some money. Joe Morell was to receive $5,000. He proved his solvency by donating $325. It's missing and Joe wants the police to find two gentlemen of glib tongue who identified themselves as Frank Catando and Louis Prizli.

New York Court Puts Curb on Mother-in-Law

White Plains, N. Y.—Supreme Court Justice A. H. F. Seeger here signed an order restraining Mrs. Ida K. Greenwood of Mount Vernon from interfering with her son-in-law, Ferdinand Hoffman, in his attempts to see his three children and also restraining her from crossing the street in front of her home in Mount Vernon to the homes of Hoffman's sisters and from talking to them or to neighbors of either regarding the marital affairs of the Hoffmans.

Hoffman in his complaint petition said that his mother-in-law did everything she could to keep the children from his sight. "She is spluttering her mother-in-law spite in Mount Vernon," he said. Hoffman and his wife were recently estranged, but have not been legally separated. Mrs. Hoffman lives with her mother and the three Hoffman children, John, fourteen; Edward, eight, and Anna, six years old. Hoffman recently applied for a writ of habeas corpus to permit him to get the custody of the children, and Justice Seeger's order made provision for the father to see his children on certain days of the week.

BABY PARADE PUMPKIN SHOW

All Entries Must be in Buggies and Wheeled on the March.

Every Child Will Receive a Prize and a Larger Number Than Ever Will Compete and Parade Will be Bigger and Better Than Previous Years.

This, our 21st, annual Pumpkin Show, and also our 21 annual Baby parade promises to be true to our motto of "Bigger and Better," and why should it not? Has not the All Powerful God in His mercy and goodness granted our Pickaway county within the past 12 months a harvest of sufficiency in all products including BABIES?

Every mother's baby is "the prettiest baby that ever lived," so they have whispered, crooned and shouted to them numbers of times, so why miss the opportunity of having that child win a prize?

About 150 or more Pickaway county mothers, looked upon the above proposition last year in the positive sense as the entries in the baby classes numbered 168.

We are proud to offer seven classes for entrants, the only stipulation being that all entries must be in buggies and wheeled in the parade.

Every child entered will receive a prize and every one loves a baby so don't be selfish and keep your baby for your own fond eyes to dwell upon but let your neighbors and friends see and rejoice with you.

Class A.—For the prettiest baby under one year of age. There are four prizes: $5, $3, $2 and $1. For the prettiest baby between one and two years of age the premiums are the same as are also the premiums for the prettiest baby between two and three years of age.

In Class D., the prettiest and most artistically decorated baby buggy, the buggy only to be considered wins first premiums of $10; second $5. 3d $2 and fourth $2.

The Class E, being for the best play outfit with little girl in charge, the premiums are the same as the first three classes as are also Class F, which is for the best novelty outfit with child in charge. Our last, but not least, Class G, is for the prettiest pair of twins under four years of age; first premium $3; second $2.

The Pumpkin Show chairman are busy making arrangements for the big entertainment next week; everything is being worked out to a nicety and everything will be whipped into shape for one of the best entertainments ever given in this city.

The main feature in the parade line is that of the schools and will feature the four seasons and will be one of the most handsome parades ever given at a Pumpkin Show.

The high school will feature its departments. The manual training will be represented in two floats showing their handiwork and operators at work. The domestic science department will also show two floats, a full rigged kitchen and household department. The physical department will have a float representing an office devoted to commercial uses and even the musical dramatic and athletic departments will be in the parades with floats.

Tuesday evening the directors voted an additional amount of money to the schools. This now totals $225 and will be used to meet the expense of decorations which will be lavish. The centralized schools won't be behind, as they have caught the fever and are making preparations to be in line. Pickaway, Jackson and Washington township centralized schools will be represented with floats and probably other schools of the county will be on hand at the appointed hour, two o'clock Eastern time Friday afternoon.

The industrial parade follows the school parade on Friday and will assemble immediately after, and will begin their march at 4 o'clock. The dilapidated auto parade and the characterization passenger auto parade will be held in daytime only and is scheduled for Friday afternoon at three o'clock and Saturday afternoon at three o'clock.

The comic and character parade in costume, the real mardi gras parade of the Pumpkin Show is scheduled for Friday night at eight o'clock. Be cut on the firing line, as the entries promised for this parade have exceeded all previous shows.

The big automobile dealers' display will be located on Pinkney street and a big banner will be swung across Court street to show the location.

The swine display will be located on East High street east of Court. This was the only available location as the state highway department has reserved Pickaway street Watt and Main streets as detour streets.

The empty room in the Crist block on Court street has been secured for the display of the art and fancy work departments and the floral display. The Food and Clothing club will give a demonstration in the auditorium of the Memorial hall Friday afternoon.

AMUSEMENTS

In "Triumph," which opened a three days' run at the Met theater last evening, Cecil B. DeMille returns from the ancient spectacle of his "Ten Commandments" to the type of ultra-modern society love drama in which he scored his most sensational successes and of which "Male and Female" and "Manslaughter" were such notable examples.

Here is the typical DeMille production, with its gorgeous settings, luxurious backgrounds, beautiful women, flashing gowns and an array of featured players that looks more like a copy of the roster of the Paramount studios than a cast. Leatrice Joy, Rod La Rocque and Victor Varconi have the principal roles. Then there is Charles Ogle, Julia Faye, Theodore Kosloff, Robert Edeson, Zasu Pitts, George Fawcett and Raymond Hutton, all featured. Quite a line-up you'll agree.

"Triumph" is the story of a strong man ruined by money and a weak man regenerated thru loss of it, and thru a wonderful girl. It takes one man from the haunts of the rich and tosses him into the gutter. It takes another from poverty to wealth and high position. It shows you a factory girl in the whirl and thunder of ponderous machinery. It shows the same girl at the pinnacle of what she calls "Triumph," with wealth, jewels, applause.

Like "Manslaughter," "Triumph" is a strictly modern love story adapted from a popular Saturday Evening Post serial. May Edginton is the author and Clara Beranger wrote the screen play.

Contrary Mineral.
Coal is a contrary critter. Instead of expanding generously, like water, in freezing weather, it contracts rapidly. The sensitive coal pile shrinks at the first touch of winter and, with the mercury at zero, when every respectable commodity is frozen stiff, the costly coal pile melts away like Simple Simon's snowball before the fire.

Every Little Helps.
Any one who questions the intention of the English to pay their war debts may feel reassured after reading this story, recently received from London: Edwin Arlington Robinson was on a train over there and lacking a ha'penny of having enough for his fare he borrowed the coin from an Englishman. A few days later he again met the Englishman and tried to pay him back, but that gentleman replied with a generous air, "Never mind, old chap. Let it apply on the debt."—Boston Transcript.

CHILD KILLED

Miss Mary Stocklen's Car.

Robert Upperman, a child six years of age, was instantly killed this morning about eight o'clock when he was hit by an auto driven by Miss Mary Stocklen of this city. The accident occurred near the Crooked bridge about two miles north of South Bloomfield on the Columbus pike at the Deleplane farm.

The boy ran across the road directly in front of the Stocklen car and the machine passed over his body. His skull and left leg at the hip was crushed and he died instantly. Miss Stocklen was accompanied by Miss Rose Ucker, the latter on her way to Columbus for medical treatment.

Miss Stocklen stopped her car within twenty to thirty feet from the point where she struck the child, which proves that she was not going at a high rate of speed. The road at this point is down grade and only a few feet away is the Crooked bridge and a reverse curve. The father of the child casts no blame on Miss Stocklen.

Coroner Dunton viewed the body and found that the child came to its death by accident.

C. E. Hill, of Williamsport, took charge of the remains.

Robert Luther Upperman was born August 26, 1918. He was the youngest child of Elmer Ellsworth and Lydia Ann Harshberger Upperman and was born in Deercreek township, this county.

Besides his parents, five brothers and four sisters survive. They are Edward, Henry, Harry, Russell and Harry Upperman at home; Mrs. Carrie Betts of this city, Mrs. Mary Wagner, of Kinderhook; Mrs. Marie Tharp, of Williamsport and Miss Mary Upperman, at home.

The boy was a pupil at the Duvall school and was waiting for the school truck to come along when the accident happened.

MRS. WILLIAM SWIFT

Died at Her Home on East Mill Street—

Funeral Friday.

Mrs. Nellie Timmons Swift, wife of William Swift, died at her home, 424 East Mill street, Tuesday evening at 8:30 o'clock. The deceased had been ill fourteen weeks with a dropsical affection and heart trouble.

She was born in New Holland April 25, 1885, and was the daughter of Edward and Lina Kellis Timmons. She came to this city when she was an infant. She was married to W. M. Swift in this city. Besides her husband, she is survived by two daughters. They are Mrs. Merle Turner and Miss Rose Swift of this city. Of her immediate family two sisters and two brothers are living. They are Mrs. George Reeser, of this city; Mrs. Jesse Berry, of New York City; Harry B. Timmons, of this city and Edward Timmons of Colorado Springs, Colorado.

The funeral services will be held at the Church of the Brethren Friday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. Rev. Coppock will officiate. Interment will be in Forest cemetery.

Disciples of Christ Meet.

Cleveland, Oct. 15.—Ten thousand delegates and guests are here to attend the sessions of the international convention of the Disciples of Christ. More than 8,000 churches are represented. Delegates from far-off places were on hand with those from every part of the United States and Canada. Rev. H. G. Bowden's report on the "Men and Millions" reported the progress of the five-year campaign of Disciple churches to win 1,000,000 converts. The campaign is entering on its last year.

Tourist Found Dead.

Danville, Ky., Oct. 15.—Frank R. Wisniewski, native of Poland, about 35 years old, was found here by the night porter of the Southern railway depot with an artery in his left arm severed. Wisniewski was well dressed and had $488 in his pockets. An honorable discharge from the United States medical corps, dated January, 1920, and a ticket from Cincinnati to Chattanooga, Tenn., were found in his clothing.

Bandits Raid Game.

Chicago, Oct. 15.—Thirty members of the National Poultry, Butter and Egg Men's association, attending a convention here, were seeking a little diversion in the room of one of the party when three bandits entered, tied up the whole party in a huge pile and then departed with a sum estimated at between $10,000 and $15,000. The robbery occurred in a fashionable loop hotel.

Long-Lived Clock.

The life of a clock is much longer than that of any other machinery. The city of Rouen has a great clock, built in the year 1389 and still keeping good time. Except for cleaning and a few necessary repairs it has never stopped during a period of more than five centuries. It strikes the hours and chimes the quarters.

Court of St. James.

The name Court of St. James is derived from the palace of St. James which fronts on Pall Mall, London. The palace was originally a hospital dedicated to St. James. It was reconstructed and made into a manor by Henry VIII, who connected it through a park with Whitehall, which was then the royal palace. St. James palace was the royal residence and seat of British government from William III to Victoria. In 1837 the royal residence was transferred to Buckingham palace, but many offices are still located in the old palace, and its name is still closely associated with the British government.

Administrator's Sale Of Real Estate.

In pursuance of an order of the Probate Court of Pickaway County, Ohio, and to us directed, we will offer for sale, at public auction, at the front door of the Court House in the City of Circleville, Ohio, on MONDAY, NOVEMBER 10, 1924, at two o'clock P. M. (Central Standard) the following real estate, consisting of three tracts of land, all of which are situated in the County of Pickaway, State of Ohio, and in the Township of Walnut, and described as follows:

FIRST TRACT: Beginning in the section line two poles south of the Quarter Section corner; thence south 88 1/2 degrees E. 86 poles to a forked limb tree; thence south 1 1/2 degrees W. 162 poles to a stone in the section line from which an elm 24 inches in diameter bears N. 50 degrees W. 41 links distant; thence N. 88 1/2 degrees W. 86 poles and 20 links to a stone in the section line; thence with said section line N. 1 1/2 degrees E. 162 poles to the beginning, containing 87 acres and 76 poles of land; being a part of the southwest quarter of Section No. 14, Township No. 9, Range No. 21, M. S.

Big Shipment.

During the month of September, the Pickaway Livestock company shipped 19 decks of livestock, totaling 350,000 pounds, this being a record breaker for September in the history of the company.

The large amount shipped is attributed to the fact that 12 decks went direct to the packers with a saving of many dollars to the farmers.

Shipping direct to the packers is something new in this county and is proving very popular, inasmuch as home weights are the basis of settlement and a premium is paid by the packer for graded stock. In some cases, hogs netted the farmer 65 cents under Pittsburgh market. This, however, was with the old-corn fed hogs.

MOVED TO CHICAGO.

Ex-Chief of Police John Myers and son, Charles, started to Chicago, Illinois, Tuesday evening in a motor truck with their household goods. Mrs. Myers went by train. Mr. Myers has rented his home of Fred Roundhouse.

Sneezing Superstitions.

In Scotland it has been maintained that idiots are incapable of sneezing, and the power to do so has been deemed evidence of the possession of a certain degree of intelligence. It was a Flemish belief that a sneeze during a conversation for a bargain proved that what you said was the truth. The Chinese believe that a sneeze on New Year's eve means bad luck through the coming year. The Japanese hold that one sneeze means that some one is praising you, two show blame, whereas, if you sneeze three times, you are merely ill.

Diamonds and Peaches"Grow" on Same Tract

The territory in which Nashville, Ark., is located makes a bid for fame in being the home of the world's largest peach orchard, with 5,000 acres in trees, and also the home of the only diamond mine in North America. There is a $1,000,000 peach crop in sight there this year, which will be considerably more than the annual production of the diamond mine, but the latter draws the largest number of tourists, says the Philadelphia Ledger.

The diamond mine was discovered by John Huddleston in 1907. He found it on a 160-acre tract in Pike county, about 14 miles northeast of Nashville, which he had bought because he believed there was gold to be found there. Huddleston was a farmer, but all his life had been interested in minerals. The first two "pebbles" found by Huddleston proved to be steel-blue gems, one weighing one and three-eighths carats. The third he found was a yellow stone, weighing one-half carat, and this he sold for $100.

Without waiting to prospect further, Huddleston sold his land for $36,000 to Little Rock interests, this being the exact amount necessary to purchase a certain farm he had in mind. He laments that if he had kept his property he probably would be a millionaire some day. Those who have been connected with the diamond mining industry here since its start say that because of the high luster of the Arkansas gems in their rough state, Pike county diamonds surpass even those of South Africa. This luster comes from their extreme hardness.

The production of this diamond field to date is estimated at 5,000 carats, the stones running in size from one-eighth to 20 1/2 carats. The diamonds occur in peridotite, which resembles burned lime in that it slakes upon exposure to air. To recover the diamonds from the peridotite two methods are employed, one being simply to spread the ore on the ground and allow it to decompose, after which it is washed in large revolving pans, and the other is to grind the ore at once and then proceed with the washing process. In the washing process the material is flushed over a grease board with water, the diamonds adhering to the grease, while the residue is carried over into the waste pile.

Adventure

It was night. Four men opposed her. Three of them were absolutely heartless. One carried a club. "Oh you brutes!" she exclaimed. "You wretched, despicable brutes! Not even carfare are you leaving me. But I might have expected such treatment from you, for you are men and all men are alike. Give them the slightest chance or excuse to get the best of a woman and each and every one of them will grasp at that chance with alacrity and glee. Ah, yes," she continued. "Ah, yes, 'tis the woman who pays and pays and pays." As she spoke of paying I saw her flush—just a poor sickly spade flush that was not even a straight. And what chance, I ask you has a flush against four kings in the great American game of poker?—Edward E. Cole, in Judge.

The Difference.

Said the occasional observer: "There may be a lot of differences between the old-time writin' feller and a crook, but one of 'em uses a pseudonym and the other just a plain alias."

TRACY WATCHES TILL WITHOUT USING A BAND

Ohio's Efficient Auditor of State Makes Officials Operate Cities Within Income.

NO BLAST OF PUBLICITY ACCOMPANIES HIS WORK

Republican Auditor Pays Out Millions of Dollars Annually Without the Loss of a Penny to Taxpayers.

By Frank H. Ward.

Columbus, O.—(Special).—Although precedent has made the office of auditor of state a stepping stone to the governorship, Joseph T. Tracy, the present incumbent, has attended strictly to business during his first term of four years, with no promotion in view, and he is seeking re-election on a record of business efficiency.

There is scarcely a village or community in Ohio where Joe Tracy is not known personally by men active in public affairs. For years he was an examiner of the books and accounts of county, municipal, village, township and school officials; as auditor, he is now chief of the staff of examiners conducting this work.

Unlike his predecessor in office, Vic Donahey, Mr. Tracy has made officials live within their income without the aid of a brass band and the trumpeting to the press of each dereliction.

In the fiscal year ending June 30, 1923, Auditor Tracy's examiners made findings for recovery totaling $951,588.36 against officials of local subdivisions, and did this without tarnishing the names of the offenders who, in most instances, hastened to rectify the wrongs in line with the suggestions of examiners.

Paymaster for the State.

In one year Auditor Tracy checked out of the state treasury over $27,000,000 without the loss of one penny. He is the paymaster of the vast army of state employees.

By virtue of his position Auditor Tracy is a member of the state emergency board and the state board of control, which function as the money-appropriating bodies when the general assembly is not in session. He also is a member of the state building commission, created by the last legislature to erect a new $3,000,000 office building out of the $40,000,000 balance in the workman's compensation fund. This commission has been able to accomplish nothing because of the obstructive tactics of Governor Donahey, who is chairman.

Check Road Expenditures.

Because of the tremendous annual expenditure of highway funds, Auditor Tracy has assigned two inspectors to make continuous inspection of road construction and repair work. They call upon contractors without notice, at irregular intervals, and note whether or not the construction is proceeding in accordance with the specifications. These men have traveled 38,500 miles in the last year and made corrections in bills which saved the state over $21,000.

The auditor's office is now authorized by law to check the expenditures on the work in the Miami conservancy district, where $32,458,538 already has been spent in an effort to prevent a repetition of the Dayton flood of March, 1913.

Tax collections for support of the state government are in Auditor Tracy's hands. In the last year he collected $5,000,000 in tax on stock of domestic corporations; $1,200,000 in tax on foreign corporations; nearly $3,000,000 in tax on gross receipts of public utility corporations; $1,200,000 in fines for violation of prohibition laws; $1,300,000 inheritance tax, and $3,500,000 in taxes from insurance companies.

Davis Friend of Soldiers.

Columbus, O.—As governor in 1921 and 1922, Harry L. Davis saw that Ohio ex-service men were voted and paid adjusted compensation aggregating $32,500,000. Of this, $25,000,000 was paid from a bond issue advocated by Mr. Davis, and approved by the people. When it developed that this would be insufficient, savings in governmental expenses in the Davis regime made it possible to take $7,500,000 from the treasury, without an additional bond issue.

Oriental Rugs

"Oriental rug" is a general term applied to rugs made in the Orient—Chinese, Bokhara, Caucasian, Turkish, Persian and Indian. Most of these rugs have a velvet pile, but Kelims are woven flat, nearly alike on both sides, while Cashmeres have a flat surface with a weave peculiar to themselves.

Probably First Lighthouse

The word "pharos" means lighthouse, and the Pharos of Egypt was a gigantic beacon which was established at Alexandria, Egypt, to light the mariners to safety. It was built by Ptolemy in 282 B. C., and it was stated that it was 400 feet high and the light was visible for 60 miles at sea.

Murderer Saved Warden's Child

By CHARLES E. BAXTER

(© 1924, Western Newspaper Union.)

"HEMLIN, you understand that you can expect no mercy. The nature of your crime precludes the possibility of it. But you have the chance to redeem your life by a last act of merit."

Hemlin nodded. He smiled. That smile of the condemned murderer was ghastly. Hemlin was a man without nerves. He had never quailed all those weeks in the cell of the condemned.

A surgeon of international reputation, he was the only man who had ever performed a certain very difficult operation. Before his day men said it could not be done. No other surgeon had performed it successfully.

The man was mad. Otherwise he would never have committed his ghastly crime. He would never have tortured a living child to death in his experiments. And in two weeks he was to hang.

Hemlin stood in the sick room in the warden's house. The warden's child lay gasping its life out on the table. All the operating implements were there. A nurse, white with terror, was there. The warden was there—with Hemlin.

The keen eyes ran over the child's face. He felt the pulse. He perceived the seat of the disease. "Yes," he said, "I can save her."

"You will?" the warden gasped. He was the father now, thinking only of his child, not of his prisoner.

"What do I get?"

"Nothing," the warden shook his head. "She shall die, if need be—I won't be false to my trust." Hemlin saw that he meant it. There was no relaxing in the warden's sense of duty. He was ready to let the child die rather than let Hemlin escape.

Hemlin hesitated. He smiled again. "I'll do it," he said. "Ether, nurse!"

At once he took command. He was no longer the man awaiting a shameful death—only the surgeon. The instruments and sponges were lifted out of the boiling disinfecting solution. The first incision was made. The operation began.

How she went through with it Nurse

Stevens said afterward she never knew. It was the most horrible hour of her career—the condemned man operating upon the all but dying child, and the warden, the child's father watching, keeping his guard over him from a chair, a revolver in his pocket and his hand gripping the revolver handle.

No, how she went through with it Nurse Stevens never knew. It was all a dim, misty, dreadful dream to her. Only she was aware at last of the doctor's stitching up the wound, and of herself mechanically assisting him, and then she heard him saying:

"It's all right. The child will live." Then the warden was at the condemned man's side, grasping his hands and telling him in broken tones that he had given back life to him too.

Life—and the shadow of the gallows. And no hope for Hemlin—not the least in the world!

The child, beginning to come out of the anesthetic, stirred and uttered a faint cry. Hemlin gave the nurse a few brisk, businesslike directions. "Take out the superficial stitches in a few days," he said. "You can do that yourself. Follow the ordinary post-operative treatment. There will be nothing special requiring my attention. If there should be complications, they will occur within the next two weeks. Call on me. After that time, however, it will be useless."

A moan escaped the warden's lips at the biting irony of it.

"What can I do, Hemlin?" he moaned. "I—I can do nothing. The governor won't take this into consideration."

"But, my friend, you have done wonders for me," responded Hemlin, smiling. "It was a great pleasure to be permitted to operate. There were distinctly novel features. I consider this a great triumph. I only regret that I cannot have the opportunity of narrating it to a medical congress. However, there is one thing you can give me, warden. Five minutes alone."

Involuntarily his glance had strayed toward the razor-edged scalpel.

"You shall have it, Hemlin," replied the warden, gripping him—by the hands.

He went out, leaving Hemlin alone.

One Idea of Genius

Genius is a mild form of insanity that causes a man to toil incessantly without knowing what he will get for his labors

GRAVEYARD HAD ITS INCEPTION IN JOKE

Man's Jestng Proposal Carried Out by Companions.

On the great Warner ranch in San Diego county, Calif., a few miles from the hot springs resort, is a little cluster of seven graves. They are just off the frequently traveled road leading to Montezuma and San Felipe valleys, but are not visible from the road and very few of the residents of that section are aware of their existence. No fence surrounds them, and but for a few fragments of a single marble slab they would not be noticed by a pedestrian who might walk over them.

But in the origin of this little burying ground is a story of throbbing interest. The graves are on a knoll a few hundred feet back of the old Butterfield stage station in Buena Vista valley, one of the stopping places of what was the longest stage line in the world, extending from St. Louis to San Francisco, in operation before the Civil war.

Through the middle part of the little Buena Vista valley runs a clenaga with a line of large cottonwood trees, affording water and shade to some of the many thousand sleek cattle which range the big ranch, says the Los Angeles Times. The stage station, built of adobe, with wooden "lean-to" and porches, was not only patronized by cross-country travelers, but was also a resort for the prospectors who thronged that region in the early days, and the cattlemen who looked after the herds in the surrounding territory. Saturday night always found a crowd of these rough-and-ready frontiersmen gathered at the station, where they spent the evening swapping stories, gambling, drinking and carousing generally.

On the Sunday morning following a particularly wild carousal, when all were partly stupefied from the night's orgy, some one remarked:

"Well, we done about everything there was to do last night, but if anybody can start anything new we will do it now."

Said another, stretching himself and yawning: "Well, the only thing I can think of that we did not do was to start a graveyard."

"That's right," said the first speaker. "We did not do that, but we'll do it right now, and you'll be the one we'll start it with."

The new idea was welcomed by all except the one who suggested it. A range rider produced a rope, and the victim was escorted to a large sycamore tree a few hundred feet from the house. The rope was thrown over a limb, and, as they thought, adjusted about the man's neck so as not to strangle him—for no one really intended to take his life. Then he was hauled up into the air, and with much hilarity the rest of the company went into the house to breakfast, leaving the unfortunate victim of their practical joke helplessly dangling.

Returning to the sycamore tree after breakfast to release their companion from his uncomfortable position, they found him dead. In their befuddled condition they had bungled in adjusting the rope, and he had been choked to death.

After they had cut the body down and it was evident life could not be restored, a consultation was held, and it was decided, without inquest or other official action, to bury the body. It was taken to the top of the knoll back of the stage station, and then and there the graveyard was started, as its first occupant had suggested.

Golden Rule in Daily Life

The knowledge that helps us to be wise and kindly and helpful is simple and easy to find. It can be found in books which almost all households possess, which can be bought very cheaply. They contain wisdom which many learned people never have and never will possess. It is not intellectual co-operation we need so much as mutual tolerance and generosity, the effort to look at everything from the other fellow's point of view.—London Daily Herald.

L. O. Edens, 35, mine guard near Plymouth, W. Va., was found shot to death in a pond near a mine by his wife.

Canada's Gold Production

Louis D. Huntton, former professor of mining and metallurgy at the university, predicts that within a few years Canada will surpass the United States in gold production. He points out that since 1915 Canada's output has increased rapidly, while in the United States it has undergone a steady decline. Canada's gold production in 1923 was valued at $25,294,000, and he expresses the opinion that this year it will rise to $30,000,000.

His Chance

"Don't you think that if I had lived in the olden days I would have made a good knight?" asked the young man who had bored her for hours describing a cinema picture he had seen.

"I don't care so much what you would have made then," observed the girl, wearily, "but you might try to see what kind of a good knight you can make now."

BRYAN OGRE LOOMS IF VOTERS SUPPORT LAFOLLETTE TICKET

Coolidge or Chaos Is Sole
Choice of Citizens as Deadlock Menace
Threatens.

LITTLE DOUBT WHO
SENATE WOULD NAME

Analysis of Situation Shows
Danger of Nebraskan Going to White House.

Coolidge or chaos.
That is about what the coming election resolves itself into. A vote for Davis is a vote for Bryan. It is generally believed that Davis cannot possibly muster the necessary majority of the electoral votes to be named President. A vote for LaFollette is a vote for Bryan. It is not claimed by the most enthusiastic supporter of LaFollette that he could by any remote chance be elected. What he could do, however, is throw the election into the congress, with the chances favoring the naming of Bryan as vice president. The house being unable to give a majority to any one of the candidates for President, as it is at present organized, the senate, under the Constitution, would elect a vice president and the vice president elected by the senate would become President on March 4. That is why a vote for Davis or LaFollette is a vote for Bryan, and a vote for Coolidge is a vote for Coolidge.

The official counting of the electoral votes is not done until February. The Twelfth amendment to the Constitution provides as follows for the conduct of the congress in case the electoral college makes no choice:

Constitutional Provision.

"And if no person have such majority, then from the persons having the highest numbers not exceeding three on the list of those voted for as President, the house of representatives shall choose immediately, by ballot, the President. But in choosing the President, the votes shall be taken by states, the representation from each state having one vote; a quorum for this purpose shall consist of a member or members from two-thirds of the states, and a majority of all the states shall be necessary to a choice. And if the house of representatives shall not choose a President whenever the right of choice shall devolve upon them, before the fourth day of March next following, then the vice president shall act as President, as in the case of the death or any constitutional disability of the President."

"The person having the greatest number of votes as vice president, shall be the vice president, if such a number be a majority of the whole number of electors appointed, and if no person have a majority, then from the two highest numbers on the list, the senate shall choose the vice president; a quorum for the purpose shall consist of two-thirds of the whole number of senators and a majority of the whole number shall be necessary to a choice."

Meets in February.

Complying with this provision of the Constitution, when the time comes in February for the Presidential electors to report, and it is discovered that there is no majority choice for President, then the house and senate will begin to ballot. But this official report of the electors does not occur until a month before it is time for the next administration to take office. From election day, November 4, until some solution of the tangle is found—and the untangling of the knot cannot come before February—the country will be facing the possibility of a deadlock, or the putting of a man into the highest office of the land who was not voted for as President, who was not even selected by his party for President.

If LaFollette could secure enough votes to keep Coolidge from having a majority of the electoral votes, throwing the election of the President into the house, the house and senate would act independently of each other in their votes. That is, the senate does not await the result of the effort of the house to elect a President before proceeding to the selection of the vice president.

Vote is by States.

As each state, no matter how large its population and its representation in the house, has only one vote, it is obvious that those states having a majority of representatives of one political faith will cast the vote of that state for their party nominee. As there are 48 states, and a majority of all of them is necessary to the selection of a President, a successful aspirant must have the votes of at least 25 states.

It should be emphasized that it is the present house of representatives and the present senate that vote for President and vice president in the event of the election being thrown into the congress. New congressmen and senators elected this fall will have nothing whatever to do with it.

The present house of representatives is so made up that there is little likelihood it can make a choice. Democrats make up a majority of the delegations of 20 states, while 23 state delegations have Republican majorities. In 5 other states the representation is evenly divided, and those states would have no vote to cast. Those states are Maryland, Montana, Nebraska, New Hampshire, and New Jersey.

Some Not Regular.

The 23 states showing a nominal Republican majority might not all vote for Coolidge. There are a few where the Republicanism of some representatives is open to question, and if LaFollette should carry those states, it is not unlikely that their votes in the house would go to LaFollette, despite the Republican label borne by such congressmen. Should any of those states vote for LaFollette, or if the states should vote as they line up on paper—20 Democratic, 23 Republican, and 5 unable to vote, no choice could be made, as 25 states are needed to elect the President.

Attention would then center on the senate. Here the state rule does not apply. Each senator of the 55 has a separate vote. For a quorum, two-thirds of the 96 must be present, or 64, and for a choice of vice president, a bare majority, or 49, is necessary.

However, in the senate only two candidates for vice president having the highest showing in the electoral college may be voted for, and this would narrow the choice down to General Dawes and Governor Bryan.

Present Situation Important.

As the present senate would select the situation there now is important. There are nominally 51 Republican senators, but this number includes LaFollette of Wisconsin and Brookhart of Iowa, and others who of late have seldom voted with the Republicans. Forty-three senators are listed as Democrats, and two, Ladd and Frazier, are listed as Farmer-Laborites.

If Bryan can hold the 43 Democratic senators in line and get the votes of the two Farmer-Labor senators, this would give him a nucleus of 45 votes. By securing four of the so-called Republicans, such as Brookhart and LaFollette, this majority would put into the White House a man for whom the American people had not voted for President, and who would be a minority choice.

If Bryan could secure only the 43 Democratic senators, the two Farmer-Labor senators, and three such men as LaFollette, the election would be deadlocked, and the country thrown into a state of chaos never before faced. Throwing the election into the congress would of itself have a terrific effect upon business and industry the country over, causing a wave of depression which would affect everyone, as this would cause months of uncertainty before a choice by the congress was attempted. If, on top of this, the senate should get into a deadlock as the house is certain to, the depression might easily become a panic, with terrific and far-reaching results.

Other Possibilities.

There is the outside chance, in the event of Coolidge failing to receive a majority of the electoral votes, that when the matter came to the senate, such Democrats as Glass of Virginia, Bruce of Maryland and Underwood of Alabama would vote for General Dawes, the Republican nominee, rather than put such a man as Bryan in the White House.

A large body of thought in the United States holds to the opinion that the whole purpose of LaFollette is to throw the election into the congress, where he and his followers probably would wield the balance of power, and this small group would name the next President of the United States. Naturally, this would put that President under heavy obligation to the LaFollette group, and he as its leader, would exercise tremendous power, even though his followers represent the smallest fraction of the makeup of the United States senate.

The summing up of the situation is this:

Voting for LaFollette is voting for Bryan.

Voting for Davis, by the same analysis, is voting for Bryan.

Voting for Coolidge is voting for Coolidge.

Women Not Swayed by False Pledges

They Believe Firmly in Coolidge, Says Mrs. Alvin T. Hert, National Leader.

Republican women are not allowing their emotions to run away with them. There will be no split in their ranks. Promises held out by LaFollette and the Socialist-Third party, hold no appeal for them. They will vote for Coolidge. This is the manner in which Mrs. Alvin T. Hert, vice chairman of the Republican National Committee, sums up the outlook for November 4th.

Mrs. Hert says that without exception reports of Republican national committeewomen from every state are the same in one respect. They all say that women are for Coolidge because they believe in him as a man. They know of the high principles for which he stands. They have watched his record during the past year and see that he is a man of conviction, and at all times stands for that which he thinks is for the good of the majority. They say that women appreciate his firm stand for an economical administration—the fact that he has evaded no issue, compromised no principle. They know that President Coolidge and the Republican party stand for protection. This means much to the woman in industry and the wife of the working man.

OVER THE TOP AGAIN IN TON LITTER CONTEST.

Charles W. Schleich, of Deercreek Township, Owner of Ten Pigs That Weighed 2520 Pounds at Age of Six Months---Remarkable Record Due to Good Breed, in?, Good Feed and Consistent Care---Weighing Witnessed by Committee.

Charles W. Schleich, of Williamsport, the owner of Ohio's first ton litter, has again gone over the top mark with a litter of ten pigs at the age of six months.

This litter was farrowed March 30, making it 130 days old September 26. The litter weighed 2520 pounds, averaging 252 pounds each, the largest weighing 275.

From the time the pigs began eating, until June 10, semi-solid buttermilk made up the bulk of the ration. After June 10, Mr. Schleich fed all the litter would drink of the surplus buttermilk from the Pickaway Dairy company, along with a mixture of ground corn, oats and wheat, until September 1, when middlings and ear corn were substituted for the first grain ration. The pigs were never off their feed and never missed a feed the entire period.

The dam of the litter is English May 108356 and the sire Highland Goliath 81961 sired by Highland Goliath 137709 the 1922 Grand Champion Poland China boar at the Ohio State fair.

Mr. Schleich attributes the remarkable growing record to the good breeding behind them, the good feed, and the consistent care they received.

The previous record of Pickaway county was made by a litter of eleven with a weight of 2500.

Messrs. George Bolender, Edward Wardell, W. C. Baum and County Agent J. D. Bragg, witnessed the weighing.

Sponges.

Fisheries experts and scientists have been unable to ascertain accurately how sponges feed. An ordinary sponge will grow from one to one and one-half inches or more a year. The portion of the sponge with which we are familiar is the skeleton or framework of the sea product as it exists in the briny deep. The slimy, gelatinous substances is decomposed by wind, weather and sunshine and subsequent soaking in sea water cures out any gelatinous materials which still adhere to the sponges.

Lava Warm After Thirty Years.

Newly ejected lava from Vesuvius has been tested and found to be at a temperature of 1,500 degrees Fahrenheit. On the volcano's slopes lavas from various outbursts are definitely isolated, and even now lava thrown out 80 years ago is quite warm.
